Chapter 1 by Wikedywik

Each chapter, do someone from a different planet than the person before you.

I'm a simple bed maker. I'm a simple person. And I'm on a simpleton planet. The West Planet. That's where all of the people who work live. The people who party live on the East Planet, and the people who manage everyone else live on the North Planet. We all revolve around Sona, our sun. We each have three moons. Except for the South Planet. Nobody talks about the South Planet much... uncivilized creatures that apparently are as human as all of us... at least, that's what the Northerners tell us. They say that from their lack of moons, that is why they are bad... it's taboo.

Chapter 2 by SuperFolder Ghostbuster

I'm an outlaw on the southern ice planet. The people who live there are easy to rob and maraud, but also easy to recruit. I am building my home for my gang so that we can rob incoming spaceships. I guess what you can call me is a pirate, because we are going to call our base the 'Skull & Yve'. So far in my pirate career I have taken down tons of light freighters and taken their millions of digicoins. Now we are building a fleet so that I can take over the North planet.
